Privacy Statement: How we use Cookies

Cookies are very small text files that are stored on your computer when you visit some websites.

We use cookies to help identify your computer so we can store login or other information on your computer and tailor your user experience. However, it must be noted that cookies cannot be used to identify you personally.

You can disable any cookies already stored on your computer, but these may stop our website from functioning properly.

The following are not strictly necessary for the operation of this Website but are required to provide you with the best user experience and also to tell us which pages you find most interesting (anonymously).

Functional Cookies

This Website Will:

- Use Google Analytics to store information such as the time you visit this Website, whether you have visited before and the website that you visited prior to visiting this Website. For further information about Google Analytics please see <http://www.google.com/intl/en/analytics/privacyoverview.html>.
- From time to time we embed videos from YouTube using YouTube's privacy-enhanced mode. This mode may set cookies on your computer once you click on the YouTube video player, but YouTube will not store personally identifiable cookie information for playbacks of embedded videos using the privacy-enhanced mode. To find out more please visit Google's information page.

Targeting Cookies

This Website Will:

- Allow you to share pages with social networks such as Facebook

This website will not

- Share any personal information with third parties.
